ELECTRONICS AFTER A LOSS

What To Do After a Loss?

Do NOT turn electronics back on! There could be hidden damage inside that could lead to permanent, irreversible damage. Unplug your electronics and wait for Synergy Response professionals.

Our experts will even restore your electronic possessions to pre-loss condition with ease! Fireline™ new Ionizer Collection presents a modern-day approach to electronic restoration. The innovative breakthrough design is unique: a combination of de-ionizer water, special detergents, and thorough drying before salvageable electronics are tested.

How Does the Process Work?

Let us take the worry out of cleaning after a loss.

Our trained professionals will identify items that can be restored and which items are unsalvageable. We also work with insurance companies to provide replacement estimate reports.

Next, our experts will take your contents to our local and clean room facility where trained professionals will begin the cleaning process. Each item is removed from our careful packing, cleaned, dried, and then prepared to be returned to you!

If your items are ready before your home is, we can store them at our local warehouse until your restoration project is complete.
